Performance review

Global equity markets sold off heavily in October and the OC Dynamic Equity Fund was no exception falling 5.8%. This was slightly behind the S&P/ASX Small Ordinaries Accumulation Index but ahead of the S&P/ASX Small Industrials Accumulation Index which returned -5.5% and -7.0%, respectively.

There were few winners across our small-cap universe in October although fund holding APM Human Service (APM, +13.3%) rallied from oversold levels with the stock likely to be a beneficiary as unemployment rate ticks up given that the company receives success fees from placing candidates into employment programs across several of its key contracts. Telix Pharmaceuticals (TLX, -22.5%) sold off after a slight miss to consensus expectations on third quarter Illuccix sales, and a preliminary data read on a prostrate diagnostic trial that seemed to confuse the market. Megaport (MP1, -19.2%) also sold off on a quarterly result which underwhelmed the market on key KPIs like new customer wins, and ports and services adds, despite exceeding market expectations from a financial perspective.

Outlook

Investors went 'risk-off' in October as hostilities between Israel and Hamas dampened risk appetite. Bond yields rose sharply, and stock indices fell globally with the prospect of 'higher for longer' interest rates weighing on stock valuations. Against this backdrop, commodities outperformed with energy prices rising as the conflict escalated and investors sought refuge in the relative safety of gold.

The US economy remains resilient with Q3 GDP of 4.9%, although the jobs market is slowing with the unemployment rate ticking up to 3.9%. It remains a delicate balancing act for the US Federal Reserve who must continue to bring inflation back to their 2% target, whilst not overdoing rate increases and causing a protracted downturn. The Federal Reserve, as expected, left rates in the 5.25 per cent to 5.5 per cent range at its policy meeting in early November. But the Fed left the door open to a further increase in borrowing costs in a policy statement that acknowledged the economy's surprising strength but also noted the tighter financial conditions faced by businesses and households.

On the home front, inflation continues to be too high and retail sales data remains surprisingly resilient despite growing cost of living pressure. This forced the hand of Reserve Bank of Australia which raised the cash rate to 4.35% on Melbourne Cup Day, despite some clear signals that the economy is slowing.

Sentiment in domestic small-caps is extremely bearish and we have used the sharp sell-off as an opportunity to deploy some cash into some quality names that have been sold down to attractive levels and ought to be resilient in a slowing economic environment.
